

Heading to VMWorld 2010

Needless to say, I am very excited to be going to VMWorld 2010 from August 30-September 2. There will be an incredible array of great resources there.

It's pretty much going to be a festival of geekdom there, but let's all admit that being a geek pays well ☐

I'm looking forward to digging deeply into advanced VMWare. I've built up a base and my company successfully leverages VMWare today. Time to raise the stakes.

There will be lots of reports coming back with me. Stay tuned!